The handover ceremony of KJSCE Codecell, wherein the baton was passed on from the previous year's council members to this year's council members. The past year's council heads recounted their experience of the past year and this year's council heads shared their aims and goals that want this year's council to achieve.

The handover ceremony was held to mark the passing on of the mantle of the council to the new members of the team. All the past year's team members were present and so were the members of this year's council.

The handover session was started by calling the past year's council heads to give a few words. They started off by recounting their experience and all that they have accomplished the past year. They talked about the perks of being a member of the council and the expectations that people have from all the council members. After recounting their experience, they wished this year's council good luck for their future endeavours and called this year's council heads to say their bit.

This year's council heads came onto the stage and told us about their aims and the hopes that they have for the council. They also shared their expectations of this year's council members for achieving all their goals and to have a great year ahead. They thanked the past year's council and the faculty members for the chance to be a part of this year's council. The faculty members were then called on stage to give a few words of their own.

The faculty members shared their views, ideas and hopes for the council's future and congratulated the past years council on a job well done and wished the new council the very best of luck for a great year ahead. The faculty members even talked about some of the projects that they are implementing or looking to implement.

The council members gave a vote of thanks to all those present for taking out some of their time for attending the handover ceremony and for their cooperation in making the ceremony a very memorable affair.

After taking a few photos, to be saved as memorabilia for this year's handover ceremony, all students and faculty members attending dispersed to fulfill their respective responsibilities.
